Washington's New Governor.

Charles Sumner Young, proprietor of THE TERMINAL, last Tuesday came up from Los Angeles. On his way at Paso Robles he spent two or three days in attendance in the sick room on his old college friend, Governor-elect Samuel Cosgrove of the State of Washington. Governor Cosgrove as the "second choice" candidate was nominated under the new primary election law of that State. In the application of this law to practical politics the "machine" is in a sense eliminated; at least it is but one factor in a campaign;—yes may be the answer, as is shown in the recent election in Washington to the question, "Shall the people rule?" In the late campaign in our sister State the money was plentiful, the fighting fierce, but what had been supposed to be the grip to death of the "machine" for the first time in the history of that State relaxed. In consequence the progressive young Republicans of Washington are now in the ascendancy, and there is a general "whoop, hurrah" sentiment over the State on the part of those in favor of fair play, and especially so on the part of the adherents of Governor Cosgrove. The Governor told THE TERMINAL representative that he considered that this new departure in politics in his State bespeaks more than language can portray for the future of Washington. The popularity of this new primary election law among the people is firmly established and is bound to continue in all future elections. This interview with the Governor-elect by the proprietor of THE TERMINAL is the only one had by any newspaper representative since he left Washington two or three weeks ago, in fact for several weeks past our Mr. Young is the only person except his immediate family who has been permitted to talk with the Governor or on any subject. As evidence of the Governor's great popularity in the election, he ran five thousand ahead of nominee Taft for the presidency.

Mr. Young will return to Paso Robles in a day or two to be with the distinguished patient through his illness.

Inauguration Day in Washington is next January fifteenth. In the meantime while Governor-elect Cosgrove of Washington is the guest of California, THE TERMINAL begs to extend him good cheer, good wishes, with the earnest hope for a speedy return to his health.

The campaign of Cosgrove with its numerous surprises is the most remarkable campaign ever made in any of the States of the great west. THE TERMINAL predicts that the incoming administration under Governor Cosgrove also will have many surprises, an administration that will not only be productive of good results to the people of Washington but will challenge the admiration of the people throughout the United States.

Taft and the Philippines.

Judge D. R. Williams, for eight years a residence of Manila, returned a short time ago to resume the practice of law in San Francisco, with offices in the Mills Building. For several years, and while President-elect Taft was Governor of the Philippine Islands Judge Williams an old friend of the proprietor of the TERMINAL, was Secretary of the Philippine Commission. In an interview a day or two ago with Judge Williams by a TERMINAL representative the Judge said that in his opinion the election of Taft to the Presidency means more for the commercial interests of the islands than any thing else that could possibly have happened. Taft knows the Philippine people, understands their peculiarities, their customs and their needs as does no other Statesman in the United States. The Judge thinks reciprocity in trade between the United States and the Philippines is only fair, as important as reciprocity in trade between the United States and Hawaii and the United States and Porto Rico. Discrimination against the Philippines in trade relations is evidently unfair. The Judge is a great admirer of the administrative ability of Taft, and of his fairness, and expressed himself with enthusiasm for Taft similar to that of four years ago when interviewed by the writer on the occasion of his visit to California in company with Judge L. R. Wilfley, now U. S. Circuit Judge at Shanghai, China.

Probable Oil District.

It is rumored that an option of purchase for thirty days has been given by the owners Baron Von Schroeder and A. F. Benton on Nacimiento Rancho, consisting of 36,000 acres and located in San Luis Obispo and Monterey Counties. The writer has inspected the rancho several times for oil and agriculture. For the latter purpose it has a great future, and its showing for oil on the surface has probably no equal in the State of California. That Nacimiento Rancho by development would be the center of a great oil district can hardly be questioned by anyone who knows the oil conditions on the rancho as does the writer.

STRONG INDORSEMENT FOR TERMINAL EDITOR

THE TERMINAL editor was for a considerable period engaged with the newspaper of the Tafts at Cincinnati and the following is Taft's recommendation dictated to the manager:

THE TIMES-STAR THE WEEKLY TIMES

Cincinnati, O., Feb. 17, 1888. To Whom it May Concern:

The bearer, Mr. Warren B. Brown, was agent for the Daily Times-Star at Delaware, Ohio, from April to September 1888, at which time he carried a list of 115 subscribers for our paper, and also acted as correspondent for us from that town.

His services were so satisfactory at the time that we offered him a guaranteed salary to take charge of our list at Dayton, Ohio, believing that the list would improve under his management.

We believe Mr. Brown to be capable, honest, and endowed with the proper spirit to make him a success in any undertaking he may be called upon.

Very Respectfully,
THE CIN. TIMES-STAR CO.
C. H. Rembold, Manager.

THE TERMINAL is in receipt of a remarkable little booklet containing a most instructive address before The Trans-Mississippi Congress on the Trans-Mississippi and the Railroads, by J. C. Stubbs, the living walking encyclopedia on information on railroads. Mr. Stubbs' treatise is sound and well-put and we print, today, a few extracts.

Our readers will know more of railroads, if they digest this.

The Market Street.

Macdonald avenue continues to be the "Market Street of Richmond" and merchants are making that discovery. Macdonald avenue merchants get plenty of trade from Point Richmond, Stege and San Pablo, because, perhaps, our stores are larger. The business from San Pablo and Stege they say is very good. Business is easily handled and distributed from the center, and stores that sell the most goods grow bigger. Macdonald avenue is the center of our city and is in the center of the business district, because the center of passenger and freight is there; the population is there and the people see it more and more.

MORE CHARTER TALK.

The charter for this city will soon be ready for a vote and the direct primary will be the manner of voting upon the measure. There will be no partisan politics in the election. The people will have the opportunity of voting upon whether they wish wards or the candidates nominated elected at large. The Terminal right here wishes to suggest to the consideration of the Board of Freeholders that there is a middle ground between the "ward" and the "at-large" principle, and that is that the city of course should have wards based upon population and that there should be included the principle of proportionate representation based upon the vote cast as in the various subdivisions of the United States government. Each ward to nominate its men, but have them elected at-large; this carries forward both the local and general principles of government and will insure a little more improvement nearer at home and at the same time will harmonize the whole government in a single unity. The propositions to be submitted at the direct primary then would be three:

1. Nominate and elect councilmen-at-large.
2. Nominate and elect councilmen by precincts.
3. Nominate councilmen in precincts and elect at-large.

If a charter carries that means to start anew, and that means that all the present board of Trustees go out. The scheme is fair for all.

The council is composed of nine members, three of whom are to be elected every two years, each member to serve six years. This may meet with some objection possibly, from those who think that a majority should go out at each election.

It is argued in objection that it would be a dangerous principle to be compelled to hold two elections to get a majority of the board of councilmen. The per cent of recall is very high and if men on the board are objectionable or if there was a machine government necessary to be broken the people at the polls should be permitted to make a clean sweep at any one election by the election of a majority of councilmen. Provision should also be made that any councilman who thoroughly and purely represents the best interests of the whole city, who does not harass, but protects every interest under wholesome regulations might be permitted to hold over, because he has been proven the "Grand Old Man" of the council; if honorable, and can give our city in a short time good public streets at the lowest possible cost, cutting out the big "G" which stands for graft, that councilman should have a civil service tenure.

While our city is in the formative period the matter of salaries, except per diem while actually engaged in work, might be dispensed with. The streets should not be sacrificed for salaries. Public spirited men are in good demand. Policemen should serve in districts and not bunched up on one side, and if possible each policeman should be a resident of the district in which he is chosen. The policemen have great hazard and should be compensated as well as the funds will permit and if possible the policeman's salary, especially a night officer, should be not less than $100 per month. The fire and police protection makes our city secure, and the city should be liberal towards these men, and not be pennywise. Nothing has been said about the fire department but the Terminal would suggest that a provision be inserted that as long as the two divisions of the city are so widely separated, that each side should elect its chief and when either chief is called with his firemen to the opposite side of the city, he then becomes the assistant and the chief becomes then the actual chief of the city fire department and his duty as chief of the whole city ceases when the fire is out, and vice versa for the other side. This method fixes the responsibility of fighting the fire upon the chief who resides near the fire. A fire may prove disastrous if a chief is permanently on one or the other side of town, if the firemen would have to await his arrival for important orders. The chief by rotation would settle all disputes and would create a strong efficiency in the city fire department.

The Board of Freeholders are drafting a beautiful charter for a grand city. The vote of the people should be had upon all the disputable points. Keep the government as close to the people as possible, and the Freeholders will wear diadems. If any one has any changes to suggest let him attend the Freeholder meetings and make his "kick" or "shoot his wad," do not wait till the last moment.

Through the subway on Macdonald avenue the electric cars will pass under the south side and the wagons and other vehicles and sidewalk under the north side of the way. Steps will lead down from the Southern Pacific depot to the walk for pedestrians. The lives of human beings will not hang in the balance after the subway is completed, about January 1st.

RAILROADS.

Mr. J. C. Stubbs, Traffic Director of the Southern Pacific Company, acting as substitute for E. H. Harriman, who had promised to address the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress, delivered a remarkably interesting speech before that body in San Francisco at its recent meeting. There is so much food for thought in many of Mr. Stubbs' ideas and deductions that some excerpts from the speech are printed here for the consideration of our readers:

"There has been committed to the management of Mr. Harriman, as you all know, certain railroad systems which serve, in large measure, this Trans-Mississippi region. Included in these is the original trans-continental line—that made by the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads. It should have been dubbed the 'Trans-Mississippi Line.' Probably these railroad systems represent the largest investment of money of any productive enterprise in all the territory within the United States west of the Mississippi River. They are also the largest individual employers of labor. Directly and through these employees they are the greatest consumers of the products of farm, forest and factory."

The trans-continental railroad lines, or rather the one described as having been first completed as you all know, historically at least, was built by the aid of the General Government. The United States advanced large sums of money to the companies which promoted and built these roads but do you know, what is true, that the last dollar of those advances has been returned to the Government, with interest? You know that the Congress in aid of the project gave every odd section of Government land within twenty miles of the completed road & the Government's price for the land was $1.25 per acre, but do you know what is also true, that the price of the adjoining even sections, retained by the Government, was immediately doubled so you know that the Government reserved the right to fix the rates to be charged for transportation service performed for it by these land grant roads, and has exercised that right by paying only half of the going rates? That is likewise a fact that you also know, what is demonstrable, that the saving to the Government in the cost of transportation and in the cost of caring for and controlling the Indian tribes by the construction and operation of these lines, will aggregate much more than the sums advanced to these companies with interest compounded annually."

These questions are asked and answered to stimulate pride in the administration of our Government as a marvelously successful trader, to express my gratification in the payment of the debt, which I believe will be equally gratifying to you, and to record my wondering admiration of the presence of our forefathers going back to the senatorial days of Thomas Jefferson.

I welcome this opportunity to say that our people do not object to the improvement of the rivers, the harbors and the waterways of this country. That work belongs to the General Government and should be done at whatever cost, wherever there is a substantial need. We think they will prove to be valuable feeders to the railroads."

I look your further indulgence to make this statement also, that so far as I know and trust I am correct, neither Mr. Harriman nor his associates have antagonized the building of the Panama Canal. Personally, I wish it had waited until the completion of the north and south lines, which I believe ought to be the next great endeavor of our people, but the Panama Canal was inevitable for many reasons."

The cost of maintenance has naturally increased, but the cost of operation has not been reduced in proportion to the expenditures made for the purpose of reducing it. More than one of the corporations owning a trans-continental line have experienced bankruptcy and been reorganized some of them more than once. All have at times faced great financial distress. Dividends equal to the going rate of interest for long loans on gilt-edged securities have been a recent experience to them."

But as you all know, while the problems of the past have been measurably solved, we are facing a new one that is just as insistent in the minds of the far-sighted men as was the building of the trans-continental line. It is for more and better railroad facilities in this Western country. The answer to this demand waits on the necessary money, which in volume will run into the hundreds of millions of dollars. For reasons which you all understand, many of you better than I do, capital is not so plentiful as it once was. The history of our railroads shows that the stockholders usually have been disappointed by the returns they have received. Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, of the Bureau of the Census and of the Interstate Commerce Commission show that in 1900 the farmers of this country received a return of 9 per cent upon the value of their farms in that year, that manufacturers enjoyed the same year a net return of 19.4 per cent, while the average net returns upon railroads was only 4 per cent."

Investors in railroads west of the Mississippi usually have not done so well. The average dividend of the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe in the years from 1882 to 1906 was 2.9 per cent. The average dividend of the Northern Pacific in the years from 1882 to 1906 was 2.3 per cent. The average dividend of the Great Northern in the years from 1882 to 1906 was 1 per cent. The average dividend of the Union Pacific in the years 1882 to 1906 was 1.5 per cent. The average dividend of the Great Northern in the years from 1882 to 1906 was 1 per cent."

The needed money will be obtainable when conditions in the productive lines of railroad investments are restored; when co-operation and good will be manifest in the relations of the people and the carrier, when it is promoted by the individual citizen; when it so pervades the public mind as to find expression through legislative bodies."

When these conditions prevail the needed money will be forthcoming, the work will be prosecuted and the wheels of industry begin to turn everywhere."

TOWN TALK

If your head aches, go to Dr. Flawith in Physicians Bldg. He is an expert optician and understands the reflex influences of eye strains upon other organs of the body of the nervous system.

Hon. R. A. Prouty, sheriff of Mariposa county, was in this city this week visiting relatives and friends.

In any government law should be so established that the electors may completely change the majority in the city council if the majority of the people so decide. This is what elections are for.

H. Dahlmann, who is with G. P. McNear, has returned to Petaluma after visiting George De Bard on Third street. Mr. Dahlmann likes Macdonald avenue for business, and he says it will be the great business center.

Tonight Onetah Tribe No. 183, Improved Order of Red Men, will probably elect B. E. Kister sachem; W. C. Denison, prophet; J. I. Esola, senior sagamore; White, De Barrows or Floyd for junior sagamore, and N. M. Blankenship for trustee.

Contractors on Macdonald avenue where art yet? Are ye hibernating? City Attorney Hart may arouse ye, in ye fair spring time when the butterfly and busy bee are busy parading good appearance with activity!

Frank Turpin is not satisfied with conditions on Second and Third street and may tie up that portion of the improvement that abuts on his property. Mr. Turpin resides in San Francisco, and perhaps does not need improvements out his way.

Dr. F. Flawith, the eye-sight specialist, has cosy offices in the postoffice building. He is kept very busy attending cases. He finds many in this city suffering from ailments that properly fit glasses will relieve. The doctor is one of our people.

The Leader has changed management about the sixth time in its history since 1902. It was Baker, Nugent, Laidlaw, Hull and Marsh. Now it is to be managed by M. J. Beaumont of the Hollister Bee, which, it is reported, is another paper of the Milnes interests. The Terminal wishes the new manager as great prosperity as the Leader before has enjoyed.

The California Wine Association this season crushed at their winery in this city 4,500 tons of grapes, yielding 675,000 gallons or 13,500 barrels. This association is ready to take care of the California yield of grapes next season. These wines are for export chiefly through a large portion of consignments are for New York wholesalers.

City Clerk H. H. Turley has gone into the newspapers to explain the dilemma the John Nicholl Land Company is in on the high assessments. It seems that this company has a large acreage in the western city limits subdivided into lots, and these lots were taxed as lots as every other lot in the city is and should be taxed. It is fortunate that no suckers bought up these unimproved and ungraded lots.

A charter for a city establishes fundamental principles of town government in accordance with law and does away with many needless ordinances. Its government should be kept as close to the people as possible and it would do no harm to elect the heads of the departments also by a popular vote, such as street superintendent, chief of police, city superintendent of schools, also city clerk and city treasurer. This does away with any possibility of a machine in the city government.

B. J. Neill will in the near future begin the construction of a ten-story building on Macdonald avenue adjacent to the central postoffice at Macdonald avenue and Sixth street. The structure will be fire-proof and will be of handsome design. One wall, a party wall, is now built in the Ghigliere building. The Red Men may secure the lease of the entire second floor.

Mr. Neill is a business man and realizes that the subway when completed will bring business from the County Line if the merchants of Richmond do the proper thing. He may occupy a large store himself or may rent it or lease.

Next Friday night at A. O. U. W. hall there will be a grand installation of Acantha Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. Mrs. Anna Neville, worthy matron; W. S. McKracken, worthy patron; Mrs. Lola Macway, associate matron; Mrs. Anna Kathryn Brown, treasurer; Fred M. Neville, secretary; Mrs. Emma Topping, conductress; and Mrs. Amy McKracken, associate conductress. The elective officers of the Star will be installed with ceremonies due the occasion. Three new members were initiated at the last meeting.

STANSBERRY A GAME FIGHTER.

Walter J. Stansberry in front of Loomis' place on Standard avenue, Monday morning brutally assaulted H. D. Mason, the ice vender. Stansberry unaware that there was any trouble struck Mason in the maxillary region as he was returning to his wagon and while Mason was down showered him with blows and used his feet. A. M. Coleman, desirous of seeing fair play, interceded in Mason's behalf and he, too, was hit on the jaw, and he promptly returned the compliment, by striking Stansberry on the side of the head, causing the blood to flow freely. While Stansberry's gore was mixing with Mason's Officer Charles Walker entered upon the stage and took part in the game, and was the devil that put an end of the Punch and Judy performance at which Stansberry performed the office of Punch. Stansberry's blood was up to about 212 degrees and was about to enter an engagement with Walker, who quieted him with the butt end of his pea shooter.

Recorder Tom Johnston when the prisoners were arraigned before him released Coleman on his own recognizance but held Stansberry and Mason each on a small bond for disturbing the peace. No one could see why Mason should be held, as Stansberry was the aggressor; however, Mason put up and Stansberry was remanded to jail without bail.
